through opportunity*

LEADERSHIP DIGEST

The year 2009 was without a doubt a year of significant challenges. Many will recall the year for its broader economic impact following traumatic national and global disruptions in financial markets. No doubt, a large number of Louisville residents will remember the year of devastating flooding across large parts of our community that left scores of families in crisis and tested our endurance for responding to community emergencies, losses and sacrifice.

Even with significant budget cuts in both government and the private sector, we continued to be hopeful and believed in our future. Our community moved forward with the planning of the two bridges, the construction of the University of Louisville basketball arena downtown and a host of other economic development projects including our own Old Walnut Street project.

Even during this most difficult economic year, we were able to raise some $2 million dollars for Old Walnut Street and will soon continue construction and prepare for the actual opening date. We are very proud of this accomplishment and know that it could not have been achieved without the tremendous leadership of Dan Crutcher, Laura Douglas and Bob Sachs and all those who contributed in support of our vision for our community.

LCCC clearly ended the year in a position of strength. Our people - both staff and volunteers - remained focused on our mission and our strategic direction for the organization in support of children and families. Through our numerous partnerships with organizations such as Metro United Way, University of Louisville and Kosair Charities, we continue to learn and grow; and truly believe in a prosperous future for our agency and its constituency.

We greet 2010 with excitement, with optimism, with courage. We have worked hard to give us a chance to reinvent ourselves in a way that will give more people an opportunity to realize his or her dreams and help each family to flourish and prosper. And we are thankful for all those who continue to believe in us.

Distinguished Leadership Awards

The Lyman T. Johnson Distinguished Leadership Awards were created by LCCC in 1990. Dr. Johnson was a true humanitarian and long-time resident of the Russell neighborhood. The purpose of the awards is to recognize individuals in the community who exemplify an active voluntary commitment to education, civil rights, human and/or community service. Dr. Johnson's efforts are an example of dedication to a cause. Over a historical 60-plus year career, he fought for equality by building coalitions that challenged racism and segregation. These coalitions, which transcended race, age, gender and religion, led to sit-ins, demonstrations and other forms of protest which resulted in the elimination of all segregation laws in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

2009 Lyman T. Johnson Distinguished Leader

Award Recipient Dawne Gee

In 1994 Dawne Gee joined WAVE 3 and currently co-anchors the 5:00, 5:30 and 11:00 news. During her tenure, she has hosted WAVE 3 Listens for 4 years and has distinguished herself with the production of the WAVE 3 Step Awards which aired its first live broadcast in February 1997.

Active in the community for many years, Dawne is on the brain Injury Association of Kentucky Board and serves as a board member of the Red Cross. "To whom much is given much is expected and I am blessed. It is my duty to give back. As Muhammad Ali says it is how I pay my rent to stay on this planet," said Dawne.

She also donates her time to a number of community organizations such as Spina Bifida Association, American Cancer Society, The MS Society, American Lung Association and The Lupus Foundation. She is highly skilled as a mistress of ceremony and provides untold hours of volunteer services as an emcee for small and large charitable organizations providing special events that raises awareness and much needed funds for causes that she supports.

As a native of Louisville, Kentucky, Dawne is highly appreciative of Dr. Johnson. "Lyman T. Johnson was an activist and a fighter for all people. He wanted to make sure that this world had opportunities for us all and he fought for that. He believed in equality in all things and education and the love of all men. He was a doer, a fighter and a good man," exclaimed Ms. Gee. Dawne holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Communications and a Bachelor of Arts degree in Biology, both from the University of Louisville. She has two sons, Eric and Alexander and a daughter, Brittney.

Louisville Central Community Centers, Inc. Community Service Awards

Corporate/Organizational

United Parcel Service - Louisville Central Community Centers, Inc.'s (LCCC) community service award is given to a corporation that makes significant contributions to LCCC and the general community in support of its mission of advancing self-reliance by increasing competence and confidence among individuals and families in our community. LCCC is proud to recognize Brown-Forman Corporation with its community service award for 2009.

Brown-Forman Corporation was founded in 1870 by George Garvin Brown in Louisville, Kentucky. Today, it employs some 4,000 people worldwide with about 1,000 located in Louisville. It is one of the largest American-owned spirits and wine companies and sells its brands in more than 135 countries.

Brown-Forman's civic engagement is based on both employee volunteerism and corporate financial support. Its employees have volunteered in support of community projects such as our early childhood education and Kids Art Academy school-age programs as well as contributed hundreds of thousands of dollars to the community of Louisville annually. Significant financial support has been provided to our Old Walnut Street capital campaign over the years and Brown-Forman contributes annual operating funds on behalf of low-income children and families we serve.

Faith-Based

Canaan Christian Church - Louisville Central Community Centers, Inc. (LCCC) faith-based community service award is given to an organization that makes a significant contribution to LCCC and the community in support of one of its core values of partnering with families to gain access to the resources they need.

We are pleased to present the 2009 faith-based community service award to Canaan Christian Church. Canaan Christian Church was founded in 1983 and began to build its legacy of service to the community one year later upon relocating to 2203 Dixie Highway. After sustained growth of membership, Canaan expanded its facilities and later, in 1996, purchased a 22-acre campus and relocated to Hikes Lane. Today, Canaan Christian Church has some 4,000 members and scores of community programs that enhances the lives of people in the community.

LCCC wishes to recognize Canaan Christian Church for the establishment of the Canaan Community Development Corporation and its destiny program that provides resources and strategies that address the area of social and economic empowerment. Several grants have been provided each year to community-based organizations that work to advance self-sufficiency among the residents of the community.

These grant dollars are provided by the Canaan membership and other contributors expressly for this purpose and represent over $100,000 provided to non-profits over the last several years. More specifically, a recent grant to LCCC was used to support our Progressive Educational Performance (P.E.P. Club) program where school-age youth are provided tutoring services to help them achieve
